

University of Central Florida's Student Perception of Instruction

Spring 2022 (1740) , End of Semester

English, College of Arts & Humanities

Leah Jones

ENC4415.0001 - DIG RHETORICS & MOD DIALECTIC

Number of Students Enrolled: 25

1. What did you like best about the course and/or how the instructor taught it?

I liked the real-world applications and examples provided to us so that the more dense and technical readings made sense. Having the choice of what to do for our digital text also made it easier to engage and understand the material. I also liked the variety of digital rhetoric concepts so that there was something new each week.

2. What suggestions do you have for improving the course and/or how the instructor taught it?

(No response.)

1. What did you like best about the course and/or how the instructor taught it?

Jones puts in so much effort to make everyone feel included and listened to but it comes off effortless.

2. What suggestions do you have for improving the course and/or how the instructor taught it?

I have no suggestions to improve it. Best class

1. What did you like best about the course and/or how the instructor taught it?

I like how the Gordon Rule work was broken down into smaller pieces. It made the coursework less overwhelming and I still learned a lot. Professor Jones is also very understanding and will have no issue working with students to resolve any issues they're having. It's very easy to see how much she cares about her students and about teaching the course material. I liked having the claims summaries as previews to what we were going to discuss in class that day. I also liked how major assignments were broken down. It made them less overwhelming and helped with my procrastination issues. The anonymous peer reviewing helped me properly read the rubric so I would write the most helpful comments possible and receive helpful comments on my papers in return. If Professor Jones was coming back in future semesters, I would take as many of her classes as possible.

2. What suggestions do you have for improving the course and/or how the instructor taught it?

I feel like some of the readings that had some connection in themes should've been closer together. I remember discussing this in class when Professor Jones asked us for some feedback on the course structure.

University of Central Florida's Student Perception of Instruction

Spring 2022 (1740) , End of Semester

English, College of Arts & Humanities

Leah Jones

ENC4415.0001 - DIG RHETORICS & MOD DIALECTIC

Number of Students Enrolled: 25

1. What did you like best about the course and/or how the instructor taught it?

Teacher is incredibly knowledgeable about subject matter and understanding in regard to students. She tailors class to both CS and TC majors and engages both audiences.

2. What suggestions do you have for improving the course and/or how the instructor taught it?

None

1. What did you like best about the course and/or how the instructor taught it?

I liked the way the class went and the instructor was very helpful throughout the semester

2. What suggestions do you have for improving the course and/or how the instructor taught it?

no suggestions

1. What did you like best about the course and/or how the instructor taught it?

I like how the professor considered the perspective of each student in their curriculum, allowing all majors to utilize their experiences in the work.

2. What suggestions do you have for improving the course and/or how the instructor taught it?

I do not have much to suggest. Maybe recorded lectures for those who miss class?

1. What did you like best about the course and/or how the instructor taught it?

The teacher spaced out the Gordon rule requirement assignments into do-able chunks instead of hitting us with a 6000 word final project.

2. What suggestions do you have for improving the course and/or how the instructor taught it?

Muffins

University of Central Florida's Student Perception of Instruction

Spring 2022 (1740) , End of Semester

English, College of Arts & Humanities

Leah Jones

ENC4415.0001 - DIG RHETORICS & MOD DIALECTIC

Number of Students Enrolled: 25

1. What did you like best about the course and/or how the instructor taught it?

none

2. What suggestions do you have for improving the course and/or how the instructor taught it?

none